Why We Need a New Organ at Christ Church

Over the past few years, we have had a number of forums at Christ Church discussing why a new (or rebuilt) organ is needed. But some people have not been able to attend, new people have joined, and so here again is an explanation of the organ situation and why—even though the organ can and often does sound adequate—a new instrument is in the works.

A pipe organ is made up primarily of wood and metal. Pipes are either wood or metal, windchests are wood. Those materials, of course, hold up pretty much indefinitely. A smaller but critical percentage of the organ is leather. Leather is used for bellows, helping to keep the air supply constant, and for valves that open to let air into pipes. It’s interesting that for all the new inventions over the past century, leather still seems to work best. But leather does deteriorate, and the leather parts of our organ have nearly reached the end of their reliable life. Soon they will have to be replaced, which is major work and expense. This sort of periodic maintenance is normal for a pipe organ after forty years or so, and the cost is worth it if the organ is good to begin with.

But our organ is not a high-quality instrument. It started its life with us as a small, used organ. In the 1950s, a local organ builder bought more parts to add to it and cobbled together basically what we have today. It was designed to be adequate, and in that sense it has served us pretty well. But we have the chance to have an organ that’s better than just adequate, for our amazing building, congregation, and music series.

With help from a consultant (Scott R. Riedel and Associates of Milwaukee—Consultation, Design, and Technical Services for Acoustics, Architecture, Organs, and Sound Systems), these problems have been identified with our organ. (Copies of the complete report are available.)

- It doesn’t “speak” clearly. This is, I think, the biggest issue. Instead of individual musical lines coming through clearly, it often sounds like “mush.”
- The entire organ is under pitch (an A on the organ is lower than an A on other instruments), making it very difficult to play well with ensembles.
- Some sounds that an organist would expect to find are not there.
- Some sets of pipes have become damaged, are always out of tune, or in other ways would need major attention in order to work well.
- Because of the way the organ was installed (and because there is no insulation on the outside wall), one whole section of the organ is not in tune with the rest during much of the winter.

Of course, it is hard to demonstrate what isn’t there. If people haven’t heard what a fine organ sounds like, ours may seem good enough. When I arrived at Christ Church over thirty years ago, my predecessor Larry Young told me that the organ wasn’t very good—especially for Bach. Famous organist Paul Manz was an associate member here for the last years of his life but declined to play this organ because of its problems. The organ works okay—for now—but something will have to be done to it soon, and this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to get an organ that will be an asset to all that we are and to future generations who come after us here.

Worship is at the heart of our life together at Christ Church—worship that is liturgical and organ-led and that brings new people of all ages to us. A new, remarkable organ will help us grow significantly in this identity and mission that we claim for ourselves.

Announcements

Retirees
There is no retirees meeting in July. Retirees will meet at 11:00am on Wednesday 27 August in the Concordia Room. A cold salad/dessert potluck lunch will follow program.

Funeral
Helia Matthew, long-time member of Christ Church Lutheran, died Friday 20 June. Her funeral was held Thursday 26 June. Pastor Carlson presided.

Happy 100th birthday to Muriel Heller on 1 July. Thanks for all you do for Christ Church, Muriel, and God’s richest blessings to you as you prepare to move to Iowa.
Finances Update

The finance committee wants to provide you with the most current information about our congregation’s finances. In addition to other communications, we will provide a quick report on the state of our operating budget in each issue of The Courier.

There was little change in our budget situation from the end of April to the end of May: envelope (member) giving is about $8,700 less than we budgeted, and our expenses are about $8,735 more than we had budgeted, due entirely to the high cost of heating this past winter. Thanks to Ole and Lena’s special appeal for help with the heating bill, we will make up some of this ground in June.

Join in celebration as Jan Radloff and Gene Bruss exchange marriage vows and begin a new life together on Saturday 30 August 2014. The ceremony is at Christ Church Lutheran at 4:00pm, with dinner and dance to follow. Please reply by 5 August, including the number attending, by sending an email to LynnLarson2955@gmail.com or calling at 651.635.9128. You may also give a written note to Jan or Gene. Please no gifts, but if desired, bring a non-perishable item for the local food shelf.
From the 17 June Council Meeting

In lieu of reproducing the minutes of each council meeting, we are offering highlights. Complete minutes are always available for review from the church office.

The council heard about the organ task force’s consultant, Gregory Peterson of Luther College. He has played the organ at times for our worship services when both of our cantors were away. He has extensive knowledge about organs and will guide the organ task force through the process of selecting an instrument that would best fit the needs of this congregation. Council approved the arrangement.

We voted to form a children’s programming task force to help plan and carry out children’s program, starting with Sunday School in the fall.

The council heard an update from the capital campaign task force. (Information about the work of this group is available elsewhere in this newsletter.) This task force will present its final report to the council in July.

We approved a recommendation from a task force established to study the best ideas for an audit process. Christ Church Lutheran will hire MAP, a consulting organization for nonprofits, to review our books and suggest a process by which we can conduct an annual review on our own thereafter. This audit is a routine process we wish to establish for the sake of good governance.

We heard reports from our pastors about the ministry that is going on in this congregation. The stewardship committee reported that we have already raised $6,000 in the drive to cover our increased heating costs for this past winter.

We approved the use of the remaining funds from the Brighter Greener Higher Campaign—$5530—to pay for the replacement of four HVAC motors with units that are more energy efficient. These units will pay for themselves through lower energy costs in three to four years.
Capital Campaign Planning in the Works

Since May, a task force composed of Christ Church members appointed by the council has been meeting to discuss the possibilities and opportunities of launching a capital campaign. Inspired by the remarkable gift of $650,000 from the Dick and Doris Gliem estate and a recent bequest from Orv Bruss, the council believes that now is the time to begin considering the real possibility of achieving long-held capital goals. Priority projects include the acquisition of a new organ, critical building preservation and repair updates, such as enhanced accessibility and a renovated courtyard, and funding mission projects focused on service outreach to the larger community. Other projects may include investment in solar-powered energy sources, a new roof, and security improvements.

The diversity of projects and our varied interest groups make a campaign particularly complex. Because of this, the council asked the task force to review our needs, assess how these needs tie in to the church’s vision, determine the feasibility of raising the necessary funds, devise a structure for a campaign, and provide recommendations to the council for how to proceed. To help answer these questions, the task force has relied on the work of the organ task force, the property and preservation committees, and the findings from the professional studies completed for the organ and the historic building.

With the recent substantial gifts, you might ask why a capital campaign is necessary? Although the bequests were generous and extraordinary, they are likely to cover only half of the anticipated costs involved with the various projects. The council felt that the congregation and our partners might be inspired to even greater generosity by these lead gifts, making so much more possible. Already there is great excitement for what these projects may bring to us and to our community. We are fortunate that we will not be alone, as we look forward to help from the Friends of Christ Church Lutheran as well as outside granting agencies for some aspects of the campaign.

Ours is a work in progress, so please bear with us as we carefully and thoughtfully plan ways to make our dreams possible. In the coming months, we will be seeking your thoughts and input, in addition to sharing more details of the capital projects. In the meantime, if you have any questions or comments, please feel free to speak with a member of the task force or council.

Pentecost at Christ Church

In preparation for preaching on Pentecost Sunday 8 June, Pastor Carlson emailed ten members of Christ Church asking them if they would be willing to share with her their thoughts about this question: Where do you see Pentecost happening at Christ Church? It was a variety of people—council members, worship leaders, parents of young children, and one child. The responses were moving. Full of thoughtful, inspiring words about our beloved congregation and the work of the Holy Spirit in us. Pastor Carlson shared excerpts from people’s comments in her Pentecost sermon. Here are some more.
I feel the Spirit gently stirring at Christ Church Lutheran as visitors walk into our church for Sunday worship and make a connection and stay. I feel the Spirit stirring as we welcome new members on a regular basis and as they contribute their talents with joy and meaning to the mission of Christ Church. —Mary Bode

The Spirit gives me courage at church to get involved, even when I’m not sure I know what I’m doing! Our mission to restart Sunday School is a place where I see Pentecost happening. —Sarah Brunsvold

At Christ Church, we are always being moved to help out somehow. . . . the Holy Spirit moving amongst us to guide us for working in the soup kitchen, making food for the homeless, or even just behaving in a welcoming manner towards all kinds of church visitors. —Jeff Weispfenning

I see Pentecost in the welcoming and hospitality at Christ Church: of visitors at Sunday worship; in the events we host; in the Reconciling In Christ statement—which seems Spirit-inspired. I see it in actions toward the elderly and infirm—Eucharistic ministry, providing rides to church. The fact that families with young children increasingly want to be a part of the Christ Church community suggests the Spirit is active in our midst. The Music Series, too, is an example of Pentecost happening here. —Dan Mueller

I see Pentecost happening now in the energized spirit of new members and the increased numbers that are coming. It is wonderful to see—young and old, gay and straight, clergy and all—all dimensions being welcomed. This is definitely an awakening for Christ Church and one that is so good to see. The Spirit is definitely present. —Phyllis Mattill

Pentecost is an invitation to dream, to see that the outlandish is actually possible. And what could be more outlandish than a church, less than a decade removed from possibly closing its doors, preparing to consider a capital campaign? That we see ourselves in a position not just to exist here, today, but to plan for the future in such significant ways? Pentecost at Christ Church is the certainty with which we plan for the future when just a few years ago we weren’t at all certain we had one. —Pat Baehler

From the moment I entered Christ Church Lutheran I have felt the active presence of the Holy Spirit stirring all of us to be bold as the people of God within the congregation, neighborhood, and world. We are set on fire by the gifts of Baptism, Eucharist, the Word, and Worship and are equipped for our callings in daily life. . . . Thank you for this awesome place where I can feel fully alive, cared for, and sent. —Naomi Bruesehoff

When I think of the Spirit, I tend to think of a force that is more than the sum of our individual efforts. I was sitting in the Property Committee meeting Tuesday night and hearing all the laughter coming from the Preservation folks across the hall. The Spirit is a bit like laughter. It unites a group in a joyous way, and the laughter is shared by the whole group. No one possesses it. We laugh a lot at Christ Church and it is a gift, little moments of abundance. That same dynamic of overflowing happens in our meetings. I enjoy being on the Council primarily because the blend of people always seems to come up with better decisions than any one of us would have produced on our own. That may be true of most groups, but I think the fact that we are all committed to what we refer to as the mission of the church or the gospel, lubricates that dynamic. Our laughter is fueled also, I believe, by a certain latent and lingering joy that originates in the gospel. —Bob Victorin-Vangerud

Pentecost is actually the perfect time to reflect on all that is happening at Christ Church. What’s happened over the last few years? Where did all this growth come from? We are full, full, full of new life, new members, new children, new programs, new organs, and lots and lots of money. Our Lord, Jesus Christ, has filled us with joy and the promise of good things in this life—now, today—even as we continually live out the hard parts of our communal existence, the fear and anxiety and the death all around us. Pentecost is a great time to be reminded that the Holy Spirit is in us and among us most intensively when we are praising God and preaching his pure gospel of love and peace rather than looking at all the good that is happening around us and thinking it’s of our own making. All those good things come from that gospel, but it is the Holy Spirit preaching through us all that good news. None of it started with us. —Josh Messner

We still don’t know the future of Christ Church Lutheran, but we know that we are baptized into the risen Christ. So there will be growth, however that is defined. —Pastor Robert Farlee

The last is a story from Pastor Carlson about Anni Messner. Anni was at church one morning while her mother, Sally Messner, was getting things ready for our summer program for kids. Anni and I went out into the courtyard where Karen Woestehoff was potting plants and laying down wood chips. I asked Anni how we could help Karen, and she said, “Ooh-oooh [that’s her name for me], Anna [that’s her name for herself], water!” And so I got Anni a water bottle, and together we made many, many trips back and forth from the water cooler to the garden, watering all the plants. Some of the water spilled, of course, and each time it did, Anni laughed and said with delight, “Oops!” It seemed like the joy of the Holy Spirit tumbling out of Anni—getting her wet with water like her baptism—a happy, beloved child of God—and giving delight to me and to Karen.
